Evidence Act and Defended Hearing Workshops

Practical training for solicitors. Each workshop stands alone, and together they connect the law of evidence with the skills needed to run contested matters. This is not just for criminal lawyers because the advocacy skills and Evidence Act understanding are important across all types of law.

Our workshops are practical. You have multiple opportunities to get on your feet and try the very skills you are taught. It is in a positive and genuinely constructive way that empowers you to be confident for your next appearance in Court.

Evidence Act Workshop

Choose this workshop if you want to strengthen your understanding of the Evidence Act and apply it confidently in the Local Court. We focus on admissibility, objections and the tactical decisions that arise when evidence is offered or challenged.

- Understand when evidence is admissible and how to raise or respond to objections.
- Obtain a practical guide to the Evidence Act, and recognise what sections apply.
- Make sound tactical decisions about admitting, challenging or using evidence.
- Apply the Evidence Act to the practical problems that arise in your matters.
- We use real world facts, statements, and affidavits for you to practice with.

Defended Hearing Workshop

Choose this workshop if you want to become a more persuasive and confident courtroom advocate. The focus is on preparing and conducting defended hearings, questioning witnesses and presenting your case effectively.

- Prepare efficiently and effectively
- Improve your questioning techniques and practical courtroom skills.
- Understand forensic choices and when to make them
- Plan and conduct hearings with greater confidence
- Understand legal directions
- Prepare and deliver closing addresses or submissions

How the workshops work together

The Evidence Act Workshop provides the legal framework: what evidence can be used, when to object and how the rules operate in practice. The Defended Hearing Workshop builds on that foundation: how to examine witnesses, make persuasive submissions and present a compelling case.

The Evidence Act Workshop teaches you the rules of the game. The Defended Hearing Workshop teaches you how to play it well.

You can attend either workshop on its own. Many practitioners choose both for a stronger foundation in evidence and practical advocacy.
